service Mapping Project

BACKGROUND

This project was developed and produced as part of the student placement with the Parramatta Region Homelessness Interagency. Students were based at Parramatta City Council which provides a secretariat role to the Interagency.

The processes of this project involved background and desktop research and interviews with service providers that work with the homeless community. Students organised visits with service providers to gather information about their service including what they provided (workshop programs, case management, meals, counselling etc.), their connections with other services, and their criteria/eligibility of who they provide services to. Follow up phone calls and emails were sent to clarify information. The information gathered from service providers were collated into tables and a service map.

This project does not include recommendations; however a summary of the findings has been included. Students acknowledge that information provided will change and people may want to alter information in the future. This can be done by contacting the Parra Region Homelessness Interagency.

AIMS

AIMS:

- To improve service delivery/quality/consistency of services for people affected by homelessness
- To resource services regarding other agencies/services
 - To identify which agencies provide specific types of services (e.g. Accommodation, Workshops, Counselling etc.)
 - To make it easier for services to refer clients
- To help the Interagency see where there are strong partnerships between agencies
 - To show where there are opportunities for agencies to collaborate or establish strong links with each other
- To provide services with the opportunity to learn from each other
- To gather information about the gaps in services for homeless people that services may have encountered
 - To raise awareness of services that appears to be isolated or not to be as well connected as others
- To assist the Interagency to identify where additional resources/services are needed

TARGET GROUPS:

- Individual service providers
- The Interagency
- Peak bodies
- Funding bodies
- People who are homeless

DEFINITIONS

Accommodation: Service or agency that provides accommodation for homeless people

Case Management: The identification and coordination by staff member/s of an agency of services a person affected by homelessness may need

Connection/Partnership: Most agencies/services, whether government or not for profit, have connections with each other. In some instances these are limited whilst in others they describe rich relationships. It can be said that connections between agencies/services can be described using a continuum: at one end are limited links and connections and at the other end are rich relationships. In this resource, only two definitions are used describing the links between agencies/services, as follows:

Connection: this includes limited links/relationships e.g. agencies/services connected through funding provided/received, one agency delivering services at the site of another, some agencies distributing resources/referral information of other services etc.

Partnership: this includes strong links/relationships not only at a service level but between people in agencies/services e.g. agencies/services sharing services, resources, making regular supported cross referrals etc.

Counselling: The provision of counselling services to clients provided at an agency

Employment: A range of programs provided at an agency that assist people to find employment, or provide resources (e.g. computer) to look for employment

Health (medical and/or mental health): Includes direct provision of a range of health services (physical and mental) e.g. providing services such as visits from the Homeless Outreach Team, running clinics or accompanying clients to medical appointments

Meals: The provision of meals at the agency or the provision of meal vouchers/parcels, or provision of free meals in public space (e.g. Prince Alfred Park, food van)

Outreach: Involves strategies that increase people's access to services that they need where the primary ways of working are building relationships with clients in a range of external places to connect to service providers and also building relationships with other services to increase client's access to them

Workshop programs: Agencies either directly provides workshop programs on site or at other premises, or staff from other agencies run their workshops at the agency. Workshop programs run over a period of time and cover a range of issues including improving and maintaining people's living skills, independence, social skills, and emotional development etc.

SUMMARY OF RESULTS

* According to the information gathered by students from services that have been visited by them between August-September 2010:

- Youth services have the most diverse range of services (accommodation, health service, street outreach)
- High St Youth Health Service has the most connections with other services
- There are 73 beds available for young people who are homeless

- The majority of beds in the area for homeless people are for men (95¹)
- All of the men's services are accommodation based
- Adele (male accommodation service) is the only service that targets males who have alcohol/drug issues

- Half of the women's services are for women surviving domestic violence
- Only a small portion of women's services allow children to reside in their service
- Of the services that take in children, the eldest male child that is accepted is 12 years old
- There are 57 beds available for homeless women

- Most services are run by larger organisations (e.g. Anglicare, Mission Australia, Parramatta Mission, St Vincent De Paul)
- Most of the services are part of larger religious organisation
- Most services are well located near public transport
- Most services are in close proximity to each other
- There are two secure and confidential accommodation houses, one for young females (15-19 years), the other for young people (16-18 years) with complex needs such as mental health, alcohol or drug issues, or dual diagnosis
- Only a few services support clients with employment in terms of accessing a computer to search for employment, or being connected to employment services
- Most accommodation services are medium-long term (6-24 months)

¹ The bed count has not included Michael's Intensive Supported Housing Accord (MISHA)

* Accommodation services that provide units have been counted as 1 bed per unit (e.g. 1 unit = 1 bed)

- Most services require residents to participate in programs² be studying/employed or looking for employment
- There are a limited number of services that take in complex needs clients who may have alcohol/drug issues or mental health issues
- Most workshop/programs are only available to clients who are staying in the service, i.e. a resident
- There are a limited number of homeless services for people who are Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander, from Culturally and Linguistically Diverse backgrounds, are elderly, Gay, Lesbian, or Transgender
- All services report that access to permanent housing is severely limited
- There are limited accommodation services for families
- Most services in the Parramatta region are members of the Parra Region Homelessness Interagency
- There are limited connections with corrective services and legal services
- Only a few services have a connection with TAFE

² Programs such as living skills, parenting groups, educational programs etc.
